TEAMBUILDING

4

A unique experience where the company aims to bring colleagues closer together by sending them to face the four elements, armed only with paddles, harnesses, or even a rabbit costume.

INCENTIVE

An eye-catching event designed to ignite employee motivation—think of it as “the new carrot on the stick”. A dedicated outing to reward achieved targets or strengthen loyalty with top clients.

MEETING

8

Half teambuilding, half incentive — a moment to meet extra muros for extra-ordinary reflections or to amplify the impact of an announcement that (for once) truly deserves more than an email.

STAYS

10

The best way to extend a teambuilding or incentive experience — allowing everyone’s personality to shine in a relaxed setting, fostering new interactions.

CATERING

12

The heart of any corporate outing—the most anticipated moment of the day, offering local flavours, an open bar, and the diverse conversations that a beautifully set table inspires!

*Great things in business
are never done by one person.
They are done by a team.*

Choosing the Right Corporate Outing

10 TIPS TO GUIDE YOUR PROJECT

The wrong place, the wrong time, and bam! You have just been volunteered to organise your team's next event. Help!

No need to panic—here are some key pointers to turn your ideas into a success.

DEFINE THE OBJECTIVE OF THE OUTING

Start by clarifying what your company aims to achieve with this event. Is it a moment of relaxation to strengthen team bonds? An opportunity to improve communication between colleagues?

Having a clear goal will help you choose the right activities and venue.

ASSESS TEAM EXPECTATIONS AND PREFERENCES

Gather input from your colleagues to consider their interests and preferences. A short anonymous survey can reveal whether they prefer sporting, fun, or cultural activities. Engaging them in the process will boost participation and satisfaction.

SET A CLEAR AND REALISTIC BUDGET

Discuss the available budget with financial or HR managers to avoid surprises.

Make sure to include transport costs, accommodation (if needed), meals and activities and a contingency fund for unforeseen expenses;

CHOOSE THE RIGHT TIMING

Avoid peak work periods or key company events to minimise disruptions.

Low-activity periods are often ideal.

Plan the event well in advance so everyone can make arrangements.

SELECT A SUITABLE VENUE

The location should align with the event's purpose and team preferences.

If the goal is to unwind, a nature retreat could be ideal. If team bonding is the focus, choose a venue with ample space for group activities, such as an estate or a fully equipped meeting space.

BALANCE ACTIVITIES AND DOWNTIME

Plan a mix of activities and breaks to ensure participation without exhaustion. A well-designed teambuilding event combines challenges, entertainment, and social moments to encourage meaningful interactions.

CONSIDER A FACILITATOR OR HOST

For team-building exercises or problem-solving workshops, an external facilitator can provide fresh insights and ensure smoother group dynamics.

PAY ATTENTION TO LOGISTICS

Consider all practical details, including, such as transport arrangements, scheduling and timings, weather conditions (for outdoor events), dietary requirements.

A well-organised event contributes to a seamless and enjoyable experience.

ENSURE INCLUSIVE AND VARIED ACTIVITIES

Offer activities that cater to all abilities so that everyone feels comfortable. A combination of light physical activities, collaborative games, and shared meals will appeal to different personalities.

10

COLLECT FEEDBACK TO IMPROVE FUTURE EVENTS

At the end of the outing, gather feedback through anonymous surveys or informal discussions to understand what worked well and what could be improved. This will help refine future events, ensuring greater satisfaction for both management and employees.
